

Abstract

A high-intensity light comprising a side-emitting optoelectronic device adapted to emit light of a desired color. A heat sink is positioned adjacent the optoelectronic device and a reflector at least partially surrounds the optoelectronic device. The reflector is 5 spaced a distance from the optoelectronic device. A window portion is sized to output the light in a desired arc.